

Why Settle for Less? Choose C2 Guard's Proven High-Performance Waterproofing Solution

When it comes to waterproofing, performance should be the top priority. While some products may appear more affordable upfront, the real question is: are they delivering the protection you need?

Non-Film Forming + Greater Solids Content = Superior Protection

Technical data doesn't lie—our non-film forming waterproofing product cannot flake or peel and boasts an impressive 15% solids content, nearly double that of a leading competitor's formulation, which was last documented at just 8%.

Proven Performance Over Time

Not only does our latest formula outperform the competition, but it even surpasses our own previous best-selling version, which was already highly effective at 12% solids. The higher solids content leads to increased durability, and long-lasting protection, giving you real value for your investment. Check out the attached video which shows our latest formulation (boards on the right) compared to our existing formulation (boards on the left). Both products were applied to horizontal deck boards at the same time and are sheeting water, but the new formulation is performing even better by still beading water after all this time – impressive!

Invest in Quality, Save in the Long Run

Yes, C2 Guard comes at a premium, but when you factor in better performance, longer durability, and lower maintenance costs, the value is clear. Why risk your high-quality sauna product by finish coating with a lower-quality solution that may require more frequent applications and repairs?

Make the smart choice—choose the waterproofing solution that delivers real results. Let's discuss how we can help you achieve long-lasting protection with a product that outperforms the rest.
