

Techivation Releases AI-Compressor

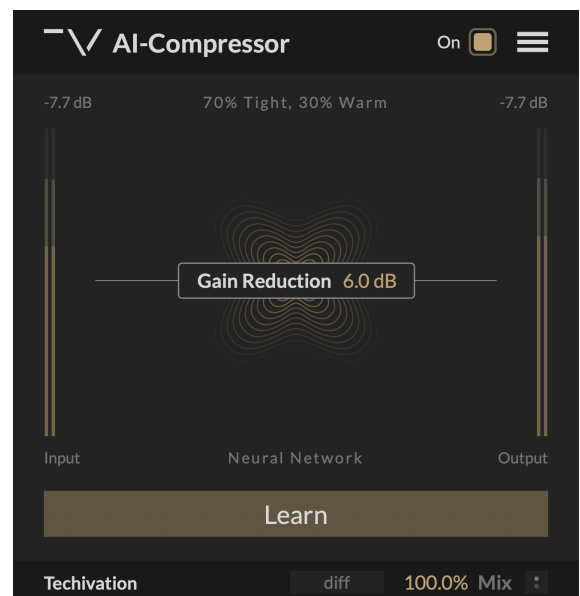

Techivation has announced the release of AI-Compressor, a groundbreaking plug-in that redefines the way you interact with compression. According to the developer, “AI-Compressor introduces a smarter, faster workflow by letting users set their desired gain reduction directly, without needing to adjust traditional parameters like threshold, ratio, or makeup gain. It brings controlled loudness with pristine clarity and ease.”

AI-Compressor’s intelligent adaptive design makes it a simple yet powerful solution for transparent control of track dynamics. Key features include: direct control over the gain reduction, transient preservation, perceptually balanced compression, and AI-powered signal analysis for consistent results with minimal effort.

By removing guesswork and parameter juggling, AI-Compressor ensures predictable, transparent compression that works across vocals, drums, instruments, and even full mixes. Its clean processing and intuitive interface make it equally valuable for quick mixing tasks or precision mastering applications.

AI-Compressor key features:

- Direct gain reduction control
- Advanced machine learning analysis
- Transparent, artefact-free compression
- Preserves natural transients
- Perceptually balanced processing
- Consistent results on any source
- No attack, release, or knee needed
- Scalable UI and internal bypass switch
- Undo/redo functionality
- And more...
