35 YEARS WORKING

Marmoraria Ponto Alto

YOU ARE A FUNDAMENTAL PART OF OUR STORY

Since October 15, 1990

Marmoraria Ponto Alto excels in the marble, granite and artificial surface market as one of the most renowned in the greater Rio de Janeiro metro area.

For the past 35 years, we have been driven to serve with world-class service and shorter deadlines coordinating customers, architects, decorators and builders. In order to achieve this high level of quality standard, we have invested in state-of-the-art technology and professional training, while maintaining an emphasis on the quality of our products.

Blueberry-Banana Chia Pudding

Crohn's and Ulcerative Colitis

Gastritis

Age-Related Inflammation

Start with a small portion for IBD to test tolerance to chia seeds.

Anthocyanins in blueberries combat oxidative stress, supporting brain and heart health. Chia seeds' omega-3s further reduce inflammation.

18

Ingredients (Serves 2):

- 1 cup unsweetened almond milk (or other tolerated nut milk)
- 1 ripe banana, mashed
- 1/2 cup fresh or frozen blueberries
- 3 tbsp chia seeds
- 1 tsp pure maple syrup (optional, omit for strict IBD diets)
- 1/4 tsp vanilla extract (optional, avoid for gastritis if sensitive)

Step-by-Step:

- Blend the Base:
  - In a blender, combine almond milk, mashed banana, and blueberries. Blend until smooth.
- Mix the Pudding:
  - Pour the blended mixture into a bowl. Stir in chia seeds, maple syrup (if using), and vanilla extract (if using).
  - Whisk well to prevent clumping.
- Set the Pudding:
  - Cover the bowl and refrigerate for at least 4 hours, or overnight, until the mixture thickens into a pudding-like consistency.
  - Stir once after 30 minutes to ensure even setting.
- Serve:
  - Spoon into bowls or jars. Top with a few extra blueberries if tolerated. Serve chilled.
